Traditional Thai Massage (Nuad Thai)

The traditional Thai massage has a history of more than 2500 years. Tensions are loosened and the mobility is extended. The aim is to strengthen the energy flow of the body as well as the physical and mental well-being. In contrast to classical western massage techniques Nuad Thai does not follow the anatomy of the body but the so called energy lines. The masseur kneads local points which positively affects internal organs. The Thai massage stimulates the blood. Muscles are stretched and strengthened, and the spinal column relieved. Blood and lymph flow are activated. Thai massage is particularly effective with head and neck pain, chronic back pain as well as physical and mental overexertion. Nuad Thai helps also with digesting problems, sleep disturbances and internal unrest. Extensive relaxation results from deep respiration and the calm flowing movements. Body and spirit can recover and gain new strength.

Thai Foot Massage (Nuad Tao)

After a foot bath the actual massage starts. With special oils and nurturing herb cream foot, calf and knees are loosened and eased. The masseur activates the reflex zones of the foot with a special pressing technique. Nuad Tao causes an energetic revival and an intensive deep relaxation.

The organs are better supplied with blood by Nuad Tao blocked life energy begins to flow again. In addition the massage supports the self healing forces of the body.

Fragrance Oil Massage

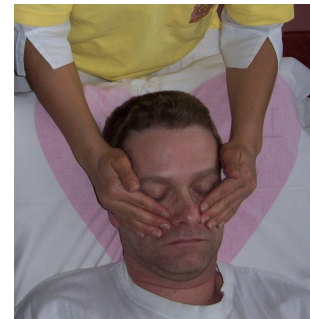

One of the most pleasant form is the Thai Oil Massage. Warmed oil is rubbed in with smooth and wide-spread movements. Special natural oils are used. They improve important metabolic functions of the body, make the skin supple and retains its natural beauty. It is especially suited to get rid of stress and hectic.

Herbal Massage

Herbal compresses are boiled up in steam and are pressed on the skin along important energy lines and points. The hot compresses open the pores and the herb mixture can do its stimulating effect. It unfolds its unsurpassed effect in particular with muscular pains, inflammations and similar complaints.

Face Massage

With gentle pressing of your face the massage helps against headache and exhaustion. It gives you the feeling of calm and wellness. The face massage brings your face a healthy and vibrant appearance.
